Re: FOIA Appeal No. 110173

Dear Mr. Mehrens:

This decision is in response to your letter received in this office on October 26, 2010, appealing under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) two determinations, one dated September 1, 2010, and the second undated[1] of David Frederickson, Acting Director, Center for Program Planning and Results, Office of the Assistant Secretary for Administration and Management (OASAM). You have appealed OASAM's withholding of information concerning the Secretary's desk calendar. Specifically, in this appeal, you seek the release of 61 calendar entries redacted by OASAM in its initial response.

We obtained from OASAM the Secretary's desk calendar entries at issue and conducted a de novo review of the material you request. After reviewing this information, we have determined that the following pages, which had been previously provided to you by OASAM in its initial response, may be released with additional information revealed. Please find these pages enclosed. Redactions have been retained as noted (based on your appeal limitation, redactions not subject to this appeal have been marked as "Not Applicable" on the enclosed documents):

1. April 7, 2009, Lunch entry;
2. May 5, 2009, Briefing entry;
3. May 5, 2009, Meeting entry;
4. May 14, 2009, Meeting entry;
5. May 20, 2009, Meeting entries. (Please note, although your appeal only requested one entry on this date, three meeting entries previously redacted by OASAM were consistent with your appeal request. To ensure your request was fully processed, we interpreted your appeal as an appeal of all three meeting entries on this page.);
6. May 29, 2009, Interview entry;
7. June 11, 2009, Call entry;
8. June 15, 2009, Interview entry;
9. June 18, 2009, Interview entry;
10. June 23, 2009, Interview entry;
11. June 26, 2009, Brief Hello entry;
12. September 4, 2009, Phone Call entry with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
13. September 5, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;

[1] In your appeal, you assert this undated decision was "sent to the Appellant on September 30, 2010."

14. September 6, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
15. September 7, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
16. September 12, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
17. September 13, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
18. September 19, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
19. September 20, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
20. September 26, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
21. September 27, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
22. October 1, 2009, Drop By entry;
23. October 3, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
24. October 4, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
25. October 10, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
26. October 11, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
27. October 12, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
28. October 15, 2009, Interview;
29. October 17, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
30. October 18, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
31. October 27, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
32. October 28, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
33. October 29, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
34. October 30, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
35. October 31, 2009, two entries at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
36. November 1, 2009, two entries at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
37. November 2, 2009, Interview entry with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;

47. December 6, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
48. December 12, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
49. December 13, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
50. December 16, 2009, Call entry;
51. December 19, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
52. December 20, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
53. December 25, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
54. December 26, 2009, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
55. January 1, 2010, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
56. January 2, 2010, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6; and
57. January 3, 2010, entry at top of calendar with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6.

Furthermore, we are affirming OASAM's redactions on the following documents:

1. April 2, 2009, Interview entry with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;
2. May 6, 2009, Interview entry with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6;

3. May 15, 2009, Interview entry with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6; and
4. May 21, 2009, Interview entry with personal identifying information redacted pursuant to exemption 6.

Under FOIA, "[a]ny reasonably segregable portion of a record shall be provided to any person requesting such record after deletion of the portions which are exempt . . . ." 5 U.S.C. § 552(b). FOIA requires that agencies generally disclose records. Agencies may withhold requested records only if one or more of nine exemptions apply.

Exemption 6 permits the withholding of information contained in "personnel and medical files and similar files the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy." 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(6); see also Painting Industry of Hawaii Market Recovery Fund v. U.S. Dep't of the Air Force, 26 F.3d 1479, 1486 (9th Cir. 1994); Sheet Metal Workers Int'l Ass'n v. U.S. Air Force, 63 F.3d 994 (10th Cir. 1995); and Painting and Drywall Work Pres. Fund, Inc. v. U.S. Dep't of Housing and Urban Dev., 936 F.2d 1300 (D.C. Cir. 1991). The Supreme Court has ruled that the term "similar files" encompasses any government record that concerns a particular individual; the term is not limited to records contained in personnel or medical files. See, e.g., Dep't of State v. Washington Post, 456 U.S. 595 (1982).

In your appeal, you raise several arguments regarding why entries should not be withheld. You assert that "an individual's name in and of itself does not qualify as a 'personnel, medical or similar file.'" However, the definition of "similar file" does not relate to the privacy interests or public interests associated with the specific material contained within the file. The threshold issue for invoking exemption 6 is whether the Secretary's calendar falls within the category of "personnel and medical and similar files." The definition of the threshold of exemption 6 relates only to what type of file that material is located in. The United States Supreme Court has held that the Congress intended the term "similar files" to be interpreted broadly. Department of State v. Washington Post Co.,456 U.S. 595, 599-603 (1982)(citing H.R. Rep. No. 89-1497, at 11 (1966); S. Rep. No. 89-813, at 9 (1965); S. Rep. No. 88-1219, at 14 (1964)). The United State Supreme Court also has held that the protection of an individual's privacy "surely was not intended to turn upon the label of the file which contains the damaging information." Id. at 601 (citing H.R. Rep. No. 89-1497, at 11 (1966)); see Judicial Watch, Inc. v. FDA, 449 F.3d 141, 152 (D.C. Cir. 2006) ("The Supreme Court has read Exemption 6 broadly, concluding the propriety of an agency's decision to withhold information does not 'turn upon the label of the file which contains the damaging information.'" (quoting Wash. Post, 456 U.S. at 601)). Government files that contain information which "applies to a particular individual" meets the threshold requirement for exemption 6 protection. Id. at 602. Consequently, we have concluded that the Secretary's calendar meets the definition of "similar file" and thus, the threshold requirement of Exemption 6.

Exemption 6 requires weighing the privacy interest in nondisclosure against the public interest in the release of the records. See, e.g., Ripskis v. HUD, 746 F.2d 1, 3 (D.C. Cir. 1984). You assert in your appeal that personal information in the form of names does not in itself convey a privacy interest. Contrary to your assertion, courts have found that there is a protectable privacy interest in names mentioned in "personnel, medical or similar files" under exemption 6. Sheet Metal Workers Intern. Assoc. v. U.S. Air Force, 63 F.3d 994, 998 (10th Cir. 1995). For a privacy interest to exist, the information must be such that there is "a substantial probability that a disclosure will cause an interference with personal privacy" and that disclosure could subject the individuals to "unwanted intrusions." National Association of Retired Federal Employees v. Horner, 879 F.2d 873, 878 (D.C. Cir. 1989) (NARFE). You contend that it is not appropriate to redact a name in a calendar that is merely mentioned, and state that while exemption 6 serves to withhold intimate details of personal and family life, it is not intended to protect business judgments and relationships. We have not found a privacy interest in names merely mentioned in the Secretary's calendar which reflect only her business relationships and business activities. The only names withheld in this case were those associated with non-work activities of the Secretary, of unsuccessful job applicants scheduled for interviews and the identity of persons serving as a weekend driver for the Secretary. The privacy interest in nondisclosure under exemption 6 encompasses an individual's control of personal information and is not limited to that of an embarrassing or intimate nature. NARFE, 879 F.2d at 875. Thus, we disagree that exemption 6 applies only to intimate details of personal and family life, and have found a privacy interest in names associated with non-work activities of the Secretary, and in the name of the individuals named as weekend drivers for the Secretary. Moreover, courts have found a recognized privacy interest in the identities of persons who apply but are not selected for federal government employment, and in the names of Federal employees where public identification may conceivably subject them to harassment and annoyance. Core v. U.S. Postal Service, 730 F.2d 946, 948-49 (4th Cir. 1984); Keys v. Dep't of Homeland Security, 570 F. Supp. 2d 59, 68 (D.D.C. 2008).

However, the question of whether a privacy interest exists is not our only inquiry. Even if a privacy interest exists in certain information, we must disclose the information if the privacy interest is outweighed by a significant public interest. In your third argument, you claim that any privacy intrusion is nominal in light of the public interest because it is in the public interest to know with whom the Secretary of Labor is coming in contact while carrying out her duties. The test for determining whether a public interest sufficient to justify release of the requested information exists is whether disclosure of the information "sheds light on an agency's performance of its statutory duties." See NARFE, 879 F.2d at 879. The requestor has the burden of establishing that disclosure would serve the public interest. Carter v. U.S. Dep't of Commerce, 830 F.2d 388, 391 nn.8 & 13 (D.C. Cir. 1987); see also, e.g., National Archives and Records Administration v. Favish, 541 U.S. 157, 172 (2004). In U.S. Dep't of Justice v. Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press, 489 U.S. 749, 776 (1989), the Supreme Court made clear that, for FOIA purposes, "public interest" is limited to the public's right to be informed about the workings of its government. Id. at 773. Thus, the test for "public interest" under FOIA is not whether there is a general interest in the information, such as the type of interest that may exist in celebrities, weather events, natural disasters, or high-profile litigation. Rather, "the basic purpose of FOIA is to ensure an informed citizenry, vital to the functioning of a democratic society, needed to check against corruption and to hold the governors accountable to the governed." Nat'l Labor Relations Bd. v. Robbins Tire & Rubber Co., 437 U.S. 214, 242 (1978) (citations omitted). In our de novo review of the redacted information, we have considered in each instance the nature of the privacy interest and public interest in the particular information. As to some specific calendar entries, we have provided additional material and more tailored redactions than did OASAM in its initial response. Where we have released additional material to you, we have concluded that the content of the redacted calendar entries either did not have a privacy interest attached, or that any privacy interest attached to the entry was outweighed by the public interest in the entry's release. We conclude, however, that you have not demonstrated that release of the names of individuals who unsuccessfully interviewed for positions at the Department of Labor, who were assigned to be a weekend driver for the Secretary, or who visited the Secretary in a personal context would inform the public in any meaningful way about the workings of the government. Where we have affirmed a redaction and continued to withhold information, it is because we determined that the privacy interest attached to the entry outweighs any public interest in its release.

Our failure to assert any other exemption or defense that may apply in this appeal does not constitute a waiver of that exemption or defense.

This appeal decision constitutes final agency action for purposes of judicial review. The Freedom of Information Act provides for judicial review of administrative decisions denying a request in whole or in part. 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(4)(B). You have the option of seeking judicial review of this determination by filing suit against the Department of Labor. A complainant may bring suit in the district court of the United States in the jurisdiction in which the complainant resides or has his or her principal place of business, or in which the agency records are maintained, or in the District of Columbia.
